

Stephanie Linsley is the Head Trainer & Equine Manager at GEMS and a renowned horse developer. Though she has loved and appreciated every interaction with equines, she has a particularly strong love and admiration for the Mustang. Stephanie's first Mustang was a mare from the Little Book Cliffs who eventually acted as an ambassador for the breed at various public events. Stephanie dedicated her years growing up in Grand Junction as an active member of the Friends of the Mustangs. Today, Stephanie interacts with over 100 wild Mustangs every year and has dedicated her life to building lasting foundations and placing these horses in appropriate homes.
